From the Desk of Fr. Chris

Have you noticed how some words that you think are simple, obvious, and clear are met with blank stares or confusion? Mostly it's a generational thing, going in either direction. I had that experience with the word "pigeonhole." With all the new ways of electronic communication, some have never experienced the honeycomb of small boxes used for letters or messages. To "pigeonhole" somebody is to assign to a category or class, often in a way that is too rigid and exclusive. And that's what happens to Jesus in the Gospel. The hometown folks have him all figured out and placed in a neat, safe box. They don't allow him to be or do anything other than their "pigeonholed" category. Thus, "he could perform no miracle there." We still do that with him. We pigeonhole him to fit neatly in our own ideas. Jesus acts in this way or can only reveal himself in that way. We want him to do as we see fit, instead of giving him the space and freedom to act as he sees fit.
